

Free childcare at Lillianna's Montessori through new government funded scheme

Lillianna's Montessori nursery in Alfold will be able to offer up to 15 hours a week of free childcare for preschool 3-5 year-olds from this September, thanks to the government Early Years Free Entitlement increasing to 15 hours.

The free hours combined with the school's exceptional facilities and unusual flexibility makes Lillianna's a specially attractive option to local parents, many of whom work full time.

Lillianna's, which takes children from age 0-5, is set in a beautiful and spacious Victorian building surrounded by almost 3 acres of land. Children benefit from lots of open air activity as well as wonderful nursery equipment and facilities. The caring and fully trained Montessori staff are sensitive to the needs of each child, encouraging their confidence and self-esteem. All food provided is home made from fresh, free range and organic ingredients wherever possible.

Learning here is a natural process as first explored by Maria Montessori in the early 1900s in Rome, ensuring that children acquire self-discipline, self-confidence and an ability to concentrate, with a natural joy for learning.

Unlike some nurseries, Lillianna's is happy for parents to take their 15 hours of free childcare with no further commitment. The nursery is also almost unique in offering total flexibility of days and hours, with no minimum commitment. Parents can drop off and pick up their children at any time during the day between 8 and 6 and the school is open 51 weeks of the year.

The Principal Carolina Langmuir, who has over 15 years experience of working in a Montessori environment and has been running Lillianna's for over 4 years, comments: "We pride ourselves in offering a truly unique service and environment for you and your child. We are an individual family home offering your child a wonderfully warm, friendly and caring environment. We are always willing to help in any way, to offer you the best possible care for your child and to suit your needs."
